Purple Community Volunteers — enhancing the health and lives of current and future generations

Van Andel Institute Purple Community is a grassroots fundraising program whose dedicated volunteers host dozens of events each year that raise critical funds to support groundbreaking research into diseases like cancer and Parkinson's, and K-12 and graduate education programs at the Institute.

Purple Community volunteers support VAI for a number of reasons. Some have been personally impacted by the diseases being studied by world-class scientists at the Institute or know a friend or family member who has been affected. Others support the education programs at VAI that foster the next generation of scientific leaders.
